

CREIGHTON MAY BE CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

SPEAKER OF HOUSE IS EXPECTED TO MAKE GOP RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 5.—(INS)—Formal announcement of the gubernatorial candidacy of Hobart Creighton is expected by the politicians within the next 10 days.

The Speaker of the State House of Representatives is organizing his campaign staff to drive for the Republican nomination for governor and soon will begin drafting his formal announcement.

There are some indications that the announcement will be expedited because of crystallization of the G. O. P. gubernatorial bloc of Lieut. Gov. Richard T. Jones.

Other Republican possibilities for chief executive of the state likewise are displaying much activity recently, including Senator William E. Jenner and Auditor of State A. V. Burch.

Judge Grant Rogers of Johnson Circuit Court in Franklin is the prime mover in the Creighton campaign. He has conducted research for a likely campaign manager and a publicity director.

Creighton does not have the unanimous support of his home district, the Second, but has most of the district committee on his side. Pressure may bring a handful of committeemen to a standard later.

Although James has not yet announced, he obtained last week the unanimous endorsement of the Fifth District, his home district. Discussing this formal endorsement, the Lieutenant Governor refused to say he is running, but did say:

"Of course I am deeply gratified for the endorsement of my home district. I would not even think of becoming a candidate unless I knew I had the wholehearted support of the Republican workers in my home county and my home district."

All of the leading G. O. P. aspirants for governor probably had announced prior to or during the midwinter meeting of the Indiana Republican Editorial Association next month, according to the politicians.

Governor Ralph F. Gates, who is a Republican national committeeman for Indiana, is reported to favor James and a majority of the G. O. P. state committee to support Senator Jenner.

But the fabian tactics of Senator Jenner are perplexing the Republican leaders. He hasn't said yes or no publicly to their questions concerning his ambitions.

However, at a conference in the office of a leading Indianapolis G. O. P. newspaper recently, Senator Jenner, over the opposition of a number of conferees, said he would like to run for governor.

King Michael In Switzerland

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Jan. 5.—(UP)—A special eight-car train carrying former King Michael of Romania crossed the Swiss frontier at Buchs today and rolled on toward Lausanne and a rendezvous with Princess Anne of Bourbon Parma and Denmark.

Michael remained behind closed doors and drawn curtains during the train's two-hour stop at the border and refused to descend.

Officials at the Austrian frontier station of Feldkirch, just over the border, Princess Anne called from Copenhagen early today and asked to speak to Michael if his train had arrived. They said Michael declined to leave the car and said he would call her as soon as he arrived at Lausanne.

No one descended to the platform during the train's stop. Marshal of the court, Dimitri Nagel, raised a window, looked out for a moment, said everyone had a nice trip and then retired.

Customs inspection of the three baggage cars disclosed Michael's black limousine, two other cars and a few pieces of luggage.

Accompanying Michael into exile were his mother, Queen Helen, and 22 members of the royal household. These included the ex-king's secretary, Mircea Ionitiu, who protected Michael from interviews as the train rolled through Austria.

CONGRESSMEN AWAIT TRUMAN TAX PROGRAM

PRESIDENT EXPECTED TO RECOMMEND SOME TAX RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5. (UP)—President Truman will reveal the administration's election year income tax plans this week. Details of the good or bad news will come next Monday in his budget message to Congress.

There are some indications that Mr. Truman will recommend tax relief for the little fellows. He is ready now with a barrage of messages with which to greet the Congress and open his 1948 presidential campaign.

The second session of the 80th Congress meets tomorrow at noon. Big business begins the next day with Mr. Truman's annual message on the State of the Union. It will give the first hint whether the President is ready to back down from his opposition to income tax reduction which caused him twice to veto cuts last year.

Details of the administration's tax and fiscal policies will come in next Monday's budget message. On Friday Mr. Truman will send to Congress an economic report which is billed as a long-range program for conservation of natural resources and extension of New Deal social welfare legislation.

The President will ask again this week for the rationing and wage-price control authority which the emergency Congress of last November-December refused to give him. And he will pound hard on necessity for further rent control.

On the issues of inflation, living costs, taxes, social security and labor legislation Mr. Truman will base his domestic platform. His associates expect him to have something more to say about the Taft-Hartley Labor Control Act in his annual message. He vetoed that bill last year and congressional Democrats joined with Republicans to pass it anyway. His veto message called the bill a threat to our democratic system. There doesn't seem to be much Mr. Truman could say about the Taft-Hartley Act in his annual message except to ask for its repeal if he still feels that it jeopardizes our way of life. Anything short of that would suggest a change of heart and anger leaders of organized labor.

Polis suggest Mr. Truman is a substantial favorite for election next November against most of the Republicans who might run against him. That is as of right now. The President's strategy in dealing with Congress will be to protect his advantage—assuming it exists—until election day next Nov. 2.

It is believed likely, therefore, that Mr. Truman will suggest some limited tax relief for 1948 voters. Congress unquestionably will pass an income tax bill and Mr. Truman may feel that he must veto it again if it extends substantial reductions in the middle and upper brackets at great cost to the Treasury.

LOCAL PEOPLE WERE IN TRAIN WRECK

Mrs. Wilmer Albin and son, Tommy, have returned home from Tulsa, Oklahoma, where they spent the Christmas holidays, with Mrs. Albin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warner James Julian.

On Dec. 20 they were in a train wreck on the Frisco "Meteor" Texas Special, shortly after reaching the Oklahoma line. The engine on the long heavily loaded train left the track when a wheel came off and tore up the track so badly it was necessary for it to back several miles when it was replaced by another one and switched on another track. Everyone was praising the engineer of the passenger train for the way he handled the train causing no deaths. The wreck made them ten hours late in reaching Tulsa, Oklahoma.

He was arrested on an affidavit filed by Northern. Police indicated other charges may be filed against Beaman.

TEN YOUTHFUL SLED RIDERS DIE ON RR CROSSING

TRAGEDY OCCURRED SUNDAY NEAR ARCHBOLD, O., TWO INJURED

ARCHBOLD, O., Jan. 5.—(UP)—The parents of 10 children killed when a passenger train crashed into a gay sleigh party said today they didn't blame the driver who admitted he "just froze stiff" at sight of the onrushing train.

"It was just an accident," said Lawrence Grieser, father of four of the dead children. "We don't blame him."

Thirteen laughing, shouting children—none older than 13—were riding the low-slung, arm utility sleigh on a Sunday afternoon outing in a light snowstorm when the accident occurred at a railroad crossing one mile east of here. Only three survived.

The National Safety Council in Chicago said it was "one of the worst highway accident death tolls on record."

Jesse Wyse, driver of the tractor hauling the sleigh, whose own son and daughter survived, said he was halfway across the tracks when he saw the train bearing down.

"I just froze stiff," Wyse said. Wyse was unhurt in the accident, but he was under a doctor's care for shock.

D. O. Sherer, of Toledo, O., engineer of the train—the New York Central's Chicagoan—said he was traveling 80 miles an hour and had no chance to come to a stop.

The train traveled one mile beyond the crossing before the emergency brakes brought it to a halt. The body of one little girl was pinned on the front of the train, beneath the boiler.

"Bodies littered the side of the tracks," one train passenger said. "On one side I counted five. That girl was pinned on the boiler when I got off the train to see what had happened."

Wyse said he had promised to take the children on the ride Saturday, but had put it off. Yesterday his son, John, 13, suggested the outing again and offered to drive the tractor.

"I told John he was too young and said I'd take them myself," Wyse said.

Wyse's son was sitting on the back of the sled and jumped off safely when the train hit. The two injured girls, Shirley Grieser, 9, and Janice Wyse, 7, were thrown off the front of the sleigh; they were reported in good condition at Detwiler hospital in Wauson, O., where they were taken.

The dead were: Jean Pearl Osborne, 12, and her sister, Marjorie, 10, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Osborne.

Gayle and Charlotte Grieser, 13-year-old twins, Patricia, 8, and Sharon, 6, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grieser.

Dawn Grieser, 13, Marlin, 11, Ariene, 10 and Janice, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Grieser.

Railroad officials said a freight train passed the unguarded crossing shortly before the accident occurred and it was believed Wyse may have waited for it to pass before he started across the tracks. The passenger train whistle might have been confused with that of the freight, it was believed.

Humane Society Planned Here

The meeting called by Miss Elisabeth Lockridge relative to the formation of a Humane Society in Greencastle was held in the assembly room of the court house Friday afternoon and was well attended by lovers of dogs and other pets.

The group has in mind the care of stray and deserted pets picked up by the police, the animals to be cared for a period to 14 days, so the owner may claim same or a home found. After this period the animal will be put to death in a humane way.

The funds will be derived from dues, donations and benefits. The money will not in any way be made by increased taxes. All the society will ask of the city is that the pets be taken to the pound, instead of being shot outright.

The next meeting will be held January 16th at the city hall. All people interested in this worthy cause are urged to attend, help us organize and offer any helpful suggestions they might think proper. Grade school, high school, college students, Boy and Girl Scouts are especially invited to this meeting. So don't forget the date and come. Your pet, dog, cat or what have you, may become lost, strayed or stolen next and this may be the means of its safe return.

JEWISH BOMB WRECKS ARAB HOTEL; 20 DEAD

HOLY CITY SCENE OF TERRIFIC BLAST EARLY TODAY

JERUSALEM, Jan. 5.—(UP)—Jewish bomb squads blasted an Arab hotel in Jerusalem early today, leaving 20 persons dead or missing and bringing to 35 the weekend death toll from two major Jewish attacks.

Fifteen Arab leaders were killed and 98 injured, 20 of them seriously, when Jews disguised as Arabs blew up the headquarters of the Arab Higher Committee in Jaffa yesterday with a truckload of dynamite.

Only 13 of 33 guests escaped death when another powerful blast wrecked the three-story stone Samirani hotel in Jerusalem at 1 a. m. today. The explosion tore the stone building apart. Rescue workers were handicapped by torrential rains and high winds.

The hotel bombing included Maj. el Allen D'Salazar, 29, Spanish vice consul of Palestine, and six members of the Lorenzo family of Christian Arabs. Missing and believed dead was Subhi Taher, news editor of the Arab newspaper Al Wahda.

Accounts of the bombing said two cars stopped outside the hotel and planted a quantity of high explosives beside the building. The cars started up and a grenade was shown, detonating the explosives. Heavy shooting followed the explosion and the body of an Arab, killed by a bullet, was found near the hotel.

The missing guests were buried under tons of masonry and British army bulldozers worked through the night to dig them out. Two injured persons were rescued, both in critical condition.

Warehouse Filled With War Goods

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(UP)—More military material destined for Palestine, including mine detectors and walkie talkies, was located in a warehouse here today, after the chance finding in Jersey City of a shipment of 65,000 pounds of TNT.

However, police who traced the origin of the explosives to the warehouse said they still were trying to find out who owned the material, who was shipping it and who was supposed to receive it.

The TNT packed in 26 cases labeled "machinery" was discovered accidentally at a Jersey City pier Saturday when a workman dropped a crate as it was being loaded aboard the American Export Lines freighter Excelsior.

When dropped, the crate burst open revealing 50 boxes of TNT marked: "Dangerous—for front line demolition only—U. S. Corps of Engineers."

Capt. Patrick Flanagan of the Jersey City police said there was enough explosive in the shipment to blow up six cities the size of Jersey City.

Police traced the shipment to the New York warehouse, believed to be owned by a Julius Chender. However, Chender's parents informed police that their son had been in Paris for the last two years and that they did not know of his owning a warehouse.

William Hoffman, head of a trucking firm that hauled the explosives to the pier, said he was unaware the shipment contained TNT. He gave police the address of the warehouse.

The explosives were addressed to agencies in Tel Aviv and Haifa and were labeled as being from the Oved Trading Company, an outfit police and customs were attempting to trace.

Police broke into the plant Saturday night and found a cache of rifle cartridges and several large drums of acid and chemicals. Upon further investigation yesterday they found radio, mine detection equipment and various types of heavy machinery.

Reds Absent As Little U. N. Meets

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Jan. 5.—(UP)—The American-inspired "little assembly" of the United Nations convenes today with Russia and five Soviet supporters giving it the cold-shoulder.

Delegates of 51 UN countries gathered for the opening session, but six empty chairs stood before the big horseshoe conference table as fresh landmarks in the American-Russian "cold war" and testimony to the division of the world into East and West.

But the little assembly went ahead as scheduled. Its job was to discuss important international issues—like the big five veto—and improve chances for real international cooperation.

It represented the first time since Russia climbed to great power status that diplomats have sat down without representatives of eastern Europe to tackle problems of peace and security.

The new UN agency met (at 11 a. m. EST) for a brief opening address by Secretary-General Trygve Lie of the UN and election of officers.

One of the chief architects of the "little assembly," John Foster Dulles of the United States, published a special article on the eve of the opening session criticizing Russia's boycott and expressing confidence the new agency will succeed without the Soviets.

"Soviet presence is not indispensable," Dulles said, and Soviet boycotts are not new in the UN.

Dulles, who piloted the "little assembly" plan to overwhelming approval by the General Assembly last November, said if the large American-led majority got results in the new agency Russia and its supporters might join later.

"There should be genuine desire to obtain full Soviet cooperation," he said, "but there should be a determination to proceed preferably with the Soviet Union, but if need be, without it."

Mexico's Luis Padilla Nervo, veteran of two General Assembly meetings and a year on the Security Council, was slated for presidency of the "little assembly." He was the United States' choice. Only other delegate mentioned for the job was Finn Moe of Norway, but a majority appeared to back Nervo.

The starting agenda was almost free of big issues, except the big five veto question. Others, including the trouble in Greece and the problem of Korean independence, were likely to come before the group later.

Delegates hoped to split into three subcommittees, one to discuss the veto issue and two to debate more technical problems about future operations of the "little assembly" soon after the opening formalities. That would leave the full "little assembly" in adjournment for a while.

Senate Leaders Discuss Policies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(UP)

Senate Republican policy-makers were called together today to begin hammering out a party legislative program which they hope will put a Republican in the White House a year hence.

The second session of the 80th Congress convenes tomorrow. And on the eve of this campaign year session, Chairman Robert A. Taft, of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, summoned the group to decide now it should proceed in developing a program. The House Republican Policy Committee will meet later this week and joint discussions of House and Senate leaders probably will follow.

The new session of Congress must end in time to send the members to their party conventions in late June and July. The intervening months promise to be filled with political bickering and violent conflicts between the Republican majority in congress and President Truman's Democratic administration.

The heaviest firing will be heard in connection with the Marshall plan for European aid, tax reduction and ways of combating the high cost of living. The political lines on taxes and prices already have been fairly well drawn, but views on the Marshall plan probably will not crystallize until House and Senate committees have wrestled with it a while.

CHOOSY KITTEN PREFERENCES
CUCUMBERS TO MILK
 MENOMONIE, Wis. (UP) — Kitty is a cat that prefers cucumbers to milk.
 Kitty's owner, Deloris Brown, says the cat learned to drink milk only after being deprived of water, but still "will only drink a little once in a while." But the first time Kitty was fed a cucumber, she went wild and now eats them all the time. No strict vegetarian, Kitty sometimes consumes beef and lean pork.

 The cat is described as an excellent "mouser," but Miss Brown says she never troubles to devour her prey. She'd rather have a cucumber.

FIND MORE PALESTINE BOUND MUNITIONS

Following the accidental discovery of thousands of pounds of TNT and munitions manufacturing machinery when a case, being loaded aboard the S. S. Executor of the American Export Lines and bound for Palestine, fell from a loading sling and burst open on a Jersey City pier, FBI agents and police raided a large Bronx warehouse and found hundreds of similar cases of explosives and equipment. At the top, a raiding officer inspects one of the packing cases marked "industrial machinery" and containing equipment for making ammunition. One of the machines for loading rifle ammunition is shown in the lower picture. (International).

Looking at Life

Erich Brandeis

It's too bad Christmas will be over by the time you read this. I was going to suggest a present to you which, in my opinion, would have been the present to end all presents.
 However, you may keep it in mind for next year and I'll be glad to send you the seller's address if you want it.
 Here it is:
 "Lucky Wishbone Greeting Gift."
 "Lasting souvenir of the giver. Think of it!" (I am now quoting the ad.) "Actually inscribed for you on a real poultry wishbone (cured). Your personal message (limit eight words)."
 Isn't it just too, too wonderful?
 Imagine the joy it would bring to your friends and relatives!
 The wishbone of a turkey or a goose or a chicken autographed by you in person!
 How clever!
 How—Nuts!
 But you can never tell. Some time ago I made fun of another ad.
 A fellow advertised some kind of old carriage bells that would sound nice in your car instead of a horn.
 You had to bore a hole in your floorboard and go to a lot of trouble to get the gadget into your car, and the contraption cost quite a bit of money besides.
 I made fun of the thing and had no idea that anybody would want anything like that.
 But what do you think?
 A week later I had a letter from a fellow in Oregon asking me to order a set of those bells for him.
 He thought it would be awfully nice to have them in his car.
 So I suppose the fellow with the autographed poultry wishbones will also do a pretty nice business.
 By the way, a woman recently advertised a complete silver tea set. There was a tray, a swinging kettle, a cream pitcher, a sugar bowl and a tea pot.
 Each of the articles was less than a half inch in size.
 I showed the ad to my wife.
 "What on earth does anybody want that kind of stuff for?" I asked.
 "How wonderful," she exclaimed. It was just what she had been looking for as a present for a friend who is a collector of miniatures.
 Carriage bells, miniature tea sets, autographed wishbones—useless?
 Nothing is useless, says my pet psychiatrist, as long as you enjoy it.
 A Happy New Year to you!

Deny President Perturbed
By Boom for Eisenhower

WASHINGTON—Sources close to the White House are discounting published reports that President Truman is "secretly annoyed" at the Eisenhower-for-President boom in certain GOP circles, and that he hastened to announce Gen. Omar N. Bradley as his successor because of this.

These sources explain that the retiring chief of staff has at least 60 days leave coming when he steps down to take over the presidency of Columbia university. They describe Bradley's appointment as directly in line with the situation at the Pentagon, and not unusual in its timing at all.

The truth is that Mr. Truman is less worried about the "draft Eisenhower" movement than is the Democratic National committee, or Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) for that matter. The president is a great admirer of Eisenhower, and this admiration is not diminished by the fact that the president is an old Army man and a combat artillery captain of World War I.

Truman believes that Eisenhower could give him the toughest campaign fight in 1948 of any other potential GOP candidate—including New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and California's Gov. Earl Warren.

Taft backers and supporters of Dewey foresee a possible Eisenhower sweep at the Philadelphia convention if their candidates get into a stalemate. At the moment, this seems possible.

● RED COALS—The Russians' main propaganda mouthpiece in the United States—the Soviet Embassy Bulletin—published in Washington, D. C., points proudly in its most recent issue to the "great progress in coal production" in the U. S. S. R.

Since the end of the war, the Bulletin says, reports from Soviet miners show exceptionally high coal production which will result in the output of a million and a half tons above quotas this year.

Coupled with the optimistic reports from the Russians on their coal output is the dire need for fuel in western Europe, where cold and hunger threaten to disrupt even further the economies of France, Italy and Austria.

Russia, however, has steadfastly refused to help supply these countries with either food or coal. Some wheat was sent to France from Russia—for cash—but this has been criticized by foreign affairs experts as a Soviet propaganda move.

These experts cannot forget that when France first asked for Russia's surplus grain to feed starving Frenchmen, the Soviet answer was a blunt refusal to do business on any basis. It was believed that French Communists finally persuaded the U. S. S. R. to come through with some wheat, at a price dictated from the Kremlin.

Just how much aid the Russians could give western Europe in the way of fuel is unknown, but it is generally conceded that it could help the situation and ease the load of the United States foreign aid program—if it so desired.

● ATOMIC DESK—Chairman David Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission, who more than any other man in government plans for the world of tomorrow, does that planning at a specially designed "desk of tomorrow." The desk, which dominates Lilienthal's huge office in the commission's super-guarded Washington headquarters, was made to his order.

The desk is in an exaggerated kidney shape and represents nothing so much as the traditional horse-shoe newspaper copydesk, although Lilienthal insists that was not the source of his inspiration.

It is a Spartan affair of varnished plywood, designed solely for work. Its shiny, natural pine surface contrasts sharply with the subdued elegance of the office's walnut paneling. The desk has no drawers; the only storage space being the bins along the outer edge of the top. The atomic energy chief sits in the hollow inner half-circle or "slot," and from there directs the commission's vast atomic empire.

Although the elaborate security measures are much in evidence in other parts of the building—great file safes, electric eye devices and hoards of policemen—none of these trappings invade Lilienthal's office.

Tiger Cubs, DePauw, Legion Players
Win Net Tilts During Past Weekend

Greencastle's Tiger Cubs found themselves Saturday evening over at Rushville and consequently returned home the winner of a 48 to 43 high school basketball game. This victory was most heartening not only to the players but to local fans as well as Coach Tom Goldsberry and his proteges who have been working hard all season.

The Cubs, led by Joe Manhart and Marketto, who collected 28 points between them on offense, went in the lead at the quarter, 18 to 9 and were out in front, 28 to 13 at the half.

Greencastle increased this edge to 38-20 at the end of the third quarter. Rushville rallied in the final frame and piled up 23 points to 10 by the Cubs, but Goldsberry's basketekers emerged the winner, 48 to 43.

The Cub B team lost a hard fought curtain raiser to the Rushville B squad, 23 to 17.

After lambasting the Plainfield Legion team, 54 to 21 on Friday night, about the same group of Post 58 Legion players went to Stilesville Sunday afternoon and defeated the independent, semi-pro squad at the National Road town by the score of 69 to 55.

The locals led 35 to 28 at half time and maintained this advantage during the final period. Greve, with 17 points, was high point man for the Legion outfit. Firman Grimes was close on his heels with 7 field goals for a total of 14 points. Other scoring by the local men was Coffman 13; Tim Grimes, 4; Nugent 14; Harmless, 4; Lovison 1, and Farowich, 2.

Legion Post 58 will meet Wayne Post at Indianapolis Thursday night in the Washington high school gym. The local Legionnaires hope to take this one and keep their current string of wins intact.

DePauw Tigers started the New Year in a most proper fashion by trouncing the University of Chicago quintet, 66 to 44, up in the Windy City Saturday night.

The Old Gold netters led at the rest intermission, 22 to 29. To date, the Methodist aggregation has won 6 and lost two hardwood court encounters.

Dinner To Honor
Wabash Mentor

Crawfordsville, Ind., Jan. 5.—Robert E. (Pete) Vaughan, the dean of Indiana coaches, who retired this fall as athletic director of Wabash College after 28 years of coaching Scarlet sports, will be honored by Wabash alumni and friends from throughout the United States at a dinner at the Indianapolis Athletic Club the night of Saturday, Jan. 17.

Vaughan resigned at the close of the 1947 football season to manage the Crawfordsville Coca-Cola Bottling Company, a family business.

The dinner, sponsored by the Indianapolis Association of Wabash Men, will be attended by his former players, former students who never wore an athletic uniform but who consider Pete one of their staunchest friends, faculty members, newspaper men, and coaches of rival colleges.

You've probably said that more than once. Thousands of farmers have. But after the machine is in the shed for winter, it is often neglected until it's time to take it back into the field.

Here's a suggestion that will save you time and money. As soon as you finish this year with your All-Crop Harvester,
